Rush County Chamber of Commerce & Herdrich Petroleum Corporation Invite You to...Fill up on savings

Companies looking for a way to reduce expenses need not look any further. A new partnership between the Rush County Chamber of Commerce and Herdrich Petroleum Corporation promises to save Chamber member companies 3 percent when they purchase regular gasoline or diesel fuel at any Shell location nationwide.

This benefit of the Shell Fleet Plus Card is usually reserved for Shell's largest customers and typically tied to monthly purchase requirements. However, this offer is being extended to all Chamber member companies, regardless of size, without the burden of purchase requirements or monthly fees.

In addition to the 3 percent savings, the Shell Fleet Plus Card program includes built-in security and purchase controls, a concise monthly statement that eliminates the need for employee expense reporting, online account monitoring and local service and support by a dedicated local representative.

If you would like to learn more about the Chamber's Fuel Savings program contact Heather Meckes at Herdrich Petroleum Corporation at 765-932-3224 or heather.meckes@herdrich.com

Rush County Chamber of Commerce Crowns RushFest Princess

On Saturday, September 12th, the Rush County Chamber of Commerce held the RushFest Princess breakfast and competition. Several young ladies competed for the coveted crown, but one young lady stood out a little more than the others in the eyes of the judges, Miss Jessica Miller. Each contestant was asked to submit an essay about what she liked best about growing up in Rush County. This essay counted as 50% of the total scoring for the competition. Contestants were then interviewed by a panel of judges and ranked according to the following criteria: 50% essay, 30% interview, and 20% community involvement and volunteerism.

What I Like Best About Growing Up In Rush County

Rush County is a place that you can look out your window and see the great things that nature has given to us. The trees, farmland, flowers and everything else that makes Rush County so pure. I have lived in this county all of my life and it has been a great place to grow up.

The schools are small, but I like them that way. I do because everyone knows everyone else and it makes me feel right at home. Also, I enjoy the great things that Rush County has to offer, like the rich farm ground, the friendly people that feel like your family, the festivals and activities, and a great community. I love how I can be at a store in town and see someone I know and they will always say hello or strike up a conversation.

Another thing is that the rivers and streams are not cloudy or polluted, but great places to swim, wade, fish or collect things in. One of my favorite places to go to wade is the covered bridge by my house. I enjoy the animals that this county has to offer too. You can show them at our wonderful fair, have them as pets, or raise them with your very own hands. That leads me to my next thing I love about Rush County; our inspiring county fair. There is so much opportunity and extraordinary things there. It is a great experience. I, myself am a 4her' and I love doing all of the projects that I do.

Rush County is the land of opportunity. You are not trapped up in a city; you are surrounded by outdoors to run and play in the fresh air that the county has. So, every morning I can get motivated to see what the day brings, every day is filled with excitement and new things to learn and enjoy and every night is peaceful with the crickets sounding off after a fall day. After I get finished with college, I am planning to come back and raise my family here.

This is why I am proud to live in Rush County and what I like best about growing up in this great place I like to call home. RushFest Princess, Jessica Miller.
